Gender Equality

Problem

Gender inequality persists in the business world, with women facing systemic barriers that limit their opportunities for leadership and career advancement. Achieving gender equality in the workplace is crucial for creating a fair and inclusive society, promoting diversity and innovation, and driving economic growth. Organizations that prioritize gender equality contribute to positive change while potentially benefiting from increased talent retention and improved financial performance.

Solution

This template will provide you with key indicators such as the gender pay gap within an organization or the percentage of women in the organization and in the board, which will allow you to assess the steps organizations in your portfolio are taking towards gender equality. This data-driven approach promotes transparency, accountability, and continuous improvement towards creating fair and inclusive workplaces.

Standard delivery format

We help our clients choose from our vast inventory of data to solve specific problems. Clients can use the template as it is, or enrich it with data from our inventory to have a custom product. Our standard delivery method is a monthly datafeed, in a long format CSV file to our S3 aws hosted services.
